THE HERBERT HOWELLS TRUST

Following the death in October 2005 of Herbert Howells' daughter, Ursula, and in accordance with her wishes, the Herbert Howells Trust has been set up to be administered by St John's College, Cambridge where Dr Howells was Organist during the Second World War.

The Trust receives all royalties and performing rights dues previously received by Ursula Howells, and the Organist and Senior Bursar of the College have been appointed as her Literary Executors. The Trust, which will consult the Herbert Howells Society (set up at her instigation in 1987), exists to promote Howells' works, by supporting performances, research, publications, recordings, archives at the Royal College of Music and other means. It also exists to give financial support for the music of the College, including the Choir, organ, and the musical education of the choristers.

PRINCIPLES FOR AWARDING OF GRANTS

The Trust will, so far as is possible, make grants to projects where the benefits have widest circulation. These will principally be for:

- The publication of unpublished Howells manuscripts (both major orchestral pieces and smaller orchestral, choral, chamber and other works);
- CD recordings of Howells works which have not previously been recorded, or for all-Howells recordings;

Very occasionally, grants will be given for concerts where first performances or performances of lesser known works are to be given.

All successful applicants are requested to make acknowledgement of support from the Herbert Howells Trust in publications, CD notes and in programmes.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

All persons/organizations wishing to make an Application for a grant from the Trust should complete the form below and return it by post to: The Herbert Howells Trust, c/o Miss Caroline Marks, Choir Administrator, St John's College, Cambridge, CB2 1TP.

The Herbert Howells Trust Committee meets three times a year to consider Applications. These meetings will usually take place in November, March and June. Written notification of decisions made will be sent to applicants as soon as possible after the meeting has taken place. Any person/organization who commits to expenditure prior to written confirmation being received advising the outcome of an Application does so entirely at their own risk.
